Transport! Service Pays.

Writing to the New Pacific Empire, the World's Work of January, Geo. in the World's Work of January, Geo. Hamlin Fitch says that experience has demonstrated that a transport service conducted by a commercial company conducted by a commercial company would be as impossible as a contract commissary for the entire army. The transport service has more than paid for itself. Each transport saves the government between $109,000 and $150,000 on a single trip, these figures being based on the lowest contract rate offered the government by commercial lines. The carrying of the mails free of charge has saved the Postoffice Department fully $500,000 since the begin-ning of the war in the Philippines, and the Treasury Department was spared the expense of $200,000 in the shipment of money to the outlying possessions."

Mr. Fitch adds that "to Brigadier General Over F. Long, U. S. A., is due the credit for the present efficiency of the service. He has performed his duty most thoroughly, and with rare good judgment."

At last those who were watching the experiment began to see that the cure was coming. The nose was reduced in size, and the disease on the fingers was checked. The nails began growing, the cords of the fingers were loosened, and the last reports sent me by the happy father stated that the nails had grown out again, and that there was now only a slight amount of mucus from had grown out again, and that there was now only a slight amount of mucus from the nose. Otherwise, if one did not know that the boy had been a leper, he would not be suspected of having had any disease which could play such havor with the human body. There is now only a slight puffiness at the ends of the fingers and on the feet, a dropsical symptom, and Dr. Camp sent a medicine to regulate this. The father has written me regularly about the condition of his regularly about the condition of his , and my sister gives me her opinion the progress which the remedy is naking. She is overloyed with what she has seen.

"There are other natives and some white men there who have seen what has been done for the boy, and they have applied for the same remedy, and I have forwarded it. There was a wash woman who got leprosy, it is supposed, by inoculation, because the trouble commenced in her fingers. The joints began sloughing off. She asked for the remedy. It was given her, and she has been steadily imgiven her, and she has been steadily im-proving. She has been under treatment

AGRICULTURAL FAIR.

The intention is to open the exhibition on a Monday, so as to give Island people the opportunity to view it on that and the following day, when most of the island steamers sall. It is expected there will be many competitors from the other islands. The object of the exhibition is to stimulate the agricultural industries in this territory.

The prizes to be offered will no doubt be handsome diplomas of a tropical nature and unique in design. In some instances second prizes will be given. Everything possible will be done by the Commissioner to make the exhibition a complete success. Already much interest has been developed among farmers and others who intend to be exhibiturs.
